Holiday Stories

Grandparents Day

Grandparents Day is the first Sunday in September after Labor Day. It is a day to celebrate grandparents. It is celebrated in a few countries around the world.

It is always important to respect your elders. Your grandparents have learned a lot. What have they taught you? Did grandpa teach you how to fish? Did grandma show you how to bake cookies?

If you think about how much your parents do for you, just remember that your grandparents helped them that much, too! How can you return the favor? Do they need your help now? Maybe they would just like to see you or hear you on the phone!

Independence Day

Independence Day is always on July 4th. It celebrates our country's decision to become free from England.

Long ago, America was not its own country. We were 13 colonies owned by England. The people then did not think they were being treated fairly. They wanted to make their own rules. They wanted to be free.

On July 4th, 1776, our Founding Fathers decided we must be free. They wrote the Declaration of Independence. This was the beginning of our fight for freedom. It was a long and hard fight, but America defeated England. Because of that, we are still free today!
