Whales are animals that live in the ocean. Whales are mammals because they are born alive and drink milk from their mothers when they are young. Whales have lungs and breathe air. But, whales have a blowhole instead of a nose.

There are two types of whales: baleen and toothed.

Baleen whales have brush-like mouths and eat krill. All toothed-whales eat fish and some eat seals. The blue whale is the largest animal on the earth. People can see whales on a whale watch trip.
